G. O. P. Platform Written To Suit Landon

CHANGES MADE BY COMMITTEE AT HIS REQUEST

Statement of Policies Contains Almost Everything Sought by Kansan.

MINIMUM PAY PLANK OUT

Demand for Such a Stand Will Not Be Carried to Full Committee Meeting Today.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., June 11—The Republican platform finally emerged at noon today from the resolutions subcommittee of the national convention, after a number of changes had been made at the request of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, prospective nominee.

Members of the subcommittee said Landon had been given almost everything he asked in changes of the original compromise platform, except a plank for a constitutional amendment to permit minimum wage legislation by states.

Landon managers, who were decisively defeated on this point, said the battle for such an amendment will not be carried any further.

Say Allen Satisfied

Some committee members said, however, that former Sen. Henry Allen of Kansas, one of Landon's chief platform spokesmen, was satisfied with the form in which the document emerged from the subcommittee.

Landon's demand for revision in the compromise platform completed by the subcommittee last night had delayed presentation of the party program to the convention today. It was expected to reach the convention floor tonight.

Some of the platform rewriting asked by Landon was said by committee members to be chiefly a matter of phraseology, but among the significant demands were:

Inclusion of a platform pledging civil service status for all government employes below the rank of cabinet.

Reinstatement of a plank for control of interstate public utilities.

Revision of a plank condemning the new deal's reciprocal tariff law and demanding that trade treaties be ratified by the senate.

Wants to "Pay As You Go"

Landon's demand for a "pay as you go" tax program to finance social security was accepted finally by the subcommittee after once being rejected.

As it emerged from the subcommittee, the platform came close to conforming to the demands of Sen. Borah of Idaho. Landon managers said it was near enough to the senator's views to win his support for the ticket in November. Borah refused comment on this claim.

No changes were made by the subcommittee in major platform provisions, including the following:

A monetary plank calling for "sound money," but omitting mention of the "gold standard."

A foreign affairs plank, pledging opposition to American membership in the League of Nations and World court.

An anti-monopoly pledge strong enough to win the approval of Borah, who made it his chief campaign issue.

A farm plank stressing state's rights.

A strong state's right trend ran through the entire platform. It was stressed in the social security, farm and unemployment relief planks.

Work Delayed

Work on the much-revised and bitterly-disputed platform had been abruptly halted early today when leaders of the drive to nominate Landon expressed fear he would not approve all of their terms.

While committee members went to their hotels for a few hours of badly needed sleep, Landon chieftains confered by telephone with their leader in Topeka.

The Landon leaders were understood to be consulting him about concessions to the eastern wing of the party on the proposal for a constitutional amendment to permit minimum wage legislation by states.

Platform Asks Sound Money but Shuns Gold

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 11 — The Republican platform, as it neared completion in subcommittee today, called for a "sound currency to be preserved at all hazards," made no mention of gold, and said that wage and hour standards could be set by the states without a constitutional amendment.

The words "sound currency to be preserved at all hazards," were a literal repetition of those in the currency plank written for the Democratic platform by Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia.

Some of the other chief points of the platform as it stood in the subcommittee at that time were:

Relief—Return to local agencies to be handled through federal grants to states.

Security — Repeal the unemployment and old age insurance sections of the present law, which it called "unworkable," but provide for old age security and graduated contributions to the states to help maintain unemployment insurance plans.

Labor—"Protect the rights of labor to bargain collectively" and encourage state adoption of laws and compacts to abolish child labor, sweatshops and protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages and working conditions. "We believe this can be done under the Constitution as it stands," it said.

Agriculture—Promote an economy of plenty instead of scarcity: a national land use program, including acquisition of submarginal lands for public use; protection of land resources by a balance between soil building and soil depleting crops with reasonable benefits to cooperating farmers on "family farms."

Monopoly—Called "indefensible and intolerable"; favored vigorous enforcement of criminal and civil anti-monopoly laws with additional legislation to make monopolies impossible.

Foreign relations. Pledged against entangling alliances with foreign nations; against entrance into the League of Nations and the World court.

Love of Odor of Gasoline Nearly Costs Boy's Life

Four-Year-Old Lad Revived at Hospital After Inhaling Fumes from Tank.

His love for the odor of gasoline nearly cost Don Poorman, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Poorman of Harding Highway east, his life last night.

The boy was overcome from inhaling fumes from the gasoline tank in the cab of a truck parked at the rear of the Poorman residence, just east of the city limits, when he was found by a neighbor, Carson Sweger of Lawrence avenue, who was passing the house.

Hurried use of the oxygen tent at the City hospital and a night at the hospital have brought about a speedy recovery from the effect of the fumes and Don was to be returned to his home some time today. His heart, however, is not yet normal, his physician reported.

Don's father has a truck agency here and yesterday morning had taken a used truck in a trade and parked it in a lot at the rear of the Poorman residence. About 9 o'clock last night Carson Sweger was passing the house and heard gasps coming from the cab of the truck. Upon investigation he found the boy lying limp across the gasoline tank. His body had turned blue. Don had removed the cap from the tank to inhale what he apparently regards as the pleasing odor of the gasoline.

Mr. Sweger notified the parents who called a physician and the fire department for its inhalator. The physician arrived first and he and Mr. Poorman took the child to the hospital before firemen reached the house. At the hospital the boy was administered oxygen in the oxygen tent and recovered consciousness in about a half-hour, his physician said.

Mr. Poorman explained that his son has, on previous occasions, shown a love for the odor of gasoline. Members of the family have made repeated attempts, all futile, to discourage this tendency, he said. No matter how tightly the caps are put on the gasoline tanks the boy manages to remove them. On one occasion he made use of a chisel and hammer to get the cap off.

His physician said the boy was near death when Mr. Sweger found him. He had been in the cab about an hour, his parents believe.

LANDON STAYS ON JOB IN KANSAS AS NOMINATION NEARS

FRIENDS PRAISE HOOVER APPEAL

Former President Wins Ovation in Plea for "Holy Crusade" for Freedom.

TROUNCES NEW DEALERS

Labels Regime "Muddle of a Spoils System" and "Reckless Adventure."

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 11—Herbert Hoover sped toward New York today as the friends and admirers who wildly cheered him last night voiced superlative praise of his speech calling on the Republican party "to enter into a holy crusade for liberty."

Greeted with uproarious receptions every time he left his hotel rooms, Hoover won a half hour's ovation at the Republican national convention when he assailed the new deal as a "muddle of a spoils system" and "reckless adventure."

Shouts and cheers, including some cries of "We want Hoover," rang through the hall after delegates had listened to his assertion that without the intervention of the supreme court "we would have been a regimented people."

Fears European System

Under a blaze of lights and with his address often punctuated by applause and cheering, Hoover arrayed what he said was "evidence that the new deal is a definite attempt to replace the American system of freedom with some sort of European planned existence."

Hoover said the new deal appeared to some people as "sheer opportunism, that it is a muddle of a spoils system, of emotional economics, or reckless adventure, of unctuous claims to a monopoly of human sympathy, of greed for power, of a desire for popular acclaim and an aspiration to make the front pages of the newspapers."

"To other people," he continued, "it appears to be a cold-blooded attempt by starry-eyed boys to infect the American people with a mixture of European ideals, flavored with our native predilection to get something for nothing."

Not Repenting Either

Moreover, he said, "when we examine the speeches of Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes and others, we see little indication of repentance."

He said the new deal had hit upon the "striking solution that the way out is to produce less and to increase prices so the people can buy less."

While he concentrated most of his efforts in an attack upon the national administration, he pointed a way in which he thought the Republican party might lead the nation.

"The immediate task," he said, "is to set the country on the road of genuine recovery from the paths of instability. We have enough inventions and enough accumulated need to start the physical rebuilding of America.

"The day the Republican party can assure right principles we can

CONFEREES CONTINUE TAX BILL STRUGGLE

Forecast No Decisive Action on Disputed Phases Until G. O. P. Conclave Ends.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 11—Conferees moved today into the second round of their tussle with the tax bill amid forecasts that decisive action on controversies will not be sought until the close of the Republican national convention.

Leaders had planned that the conference committee would utilize this week's adjournment of congress to settle difficulties over house and senate provisions and have the bill ready for final action when congress reconvenes Monday.

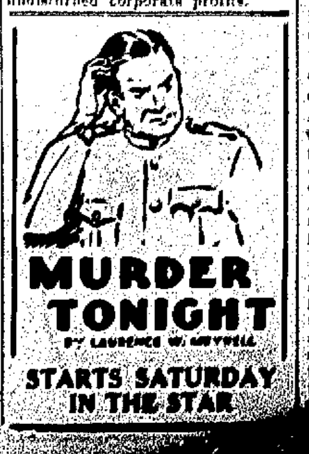

Chairman Doughton, Democrat of North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee indicated, however, that major points at issue might not even be taken up this week and that the next few days would be devoted to work out minor differences.

Most of the conferees believe that the only point which would offer any serious difficulty of settlement was that regarding the taxing of undistributed corporate profits.

SEN. BORAH FAVORS $60 MONTH PENSION

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 11—Sen. Borah said today he favored a $60 a month pension for people over 60 years of age.

He made the statement to newsmen in discussing Republican platform plans.

Although he had taken no part in discussions of the social security plank, he had favored a plank calling for an old age pension.

Runaway Colts Win Argument With Automobile

A horseless carriage, whose path crossed that of its predecessor—the horse—was much the worse for its experience, according to a police report of a collision of an automobile with at least one of five colts which had broken out of a pasture field near Mt. Vernon and Reed avenue.

The automobile, with a broken bumper, damaged radiator and twisted front axle, was towed to the McDaniel garage, while the colts, located several hours later, were virtually unscathed. The accident occurred about 2 a. m. today, when the colts, owned by the H. W. Zachman Dairy at 1047 Mt. Vernon avenue, suddenly decided to cross East Center street at Forest Lawn boulevard, in front of a car driven by Elva Perry of near Martel, he told police who arrived shortly after the collision was reported.

The colts continued south on Forest Lawn boulevard after their contact with the auto and were found grazing in a vacant field between Indiana and Mt. Vernon avenues, by their owners, [illegible] and Paul Zachman, [illegible] the dairy [illegible]

SLAIN DOCTOR KNOWN IN CITY

Cleveland Man, Found Murdered, Owned Old Miller Hotel at State, Mill Streets.

KILLING MOTIVE SOUGHT

Victim Said To Have Carried Large Sums; Wallet Missing.

Dr. Giuseppe Romano, 60, Cleveland surgeon sportsman whose bullet riddled body was found near that city yesterday, is the owner of property in the uptown business section of Marion and is well-known to several local residents.

Dr. Romano, according to the records in the county auditor's office and to his acquaintances, owns the old Miller hotel building on North State street, opposite the Ackerman hotel. The building is now occupied by the WPA sewing center and formerly housed a part of the federal transient bureau.

His acquaintances said Dr. Romano usually made a half dozen trips a year to Marion to look after his interests. Last week-end his wife and a daughter were in Delaware to see another daughter, Florence, graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university.

Body Found In Car

Dr. Romano's body was found in his automobile in a lovers' lane in Moreland Hills yesterday morning. County authorities of Cleveland are studying his mysterious life in an attempt to learn who could have committed the murder, Cleveland news dispatches reported. Sheriff's deputies said today Dr. Romano had been in fear of his life for the last six weeks, according to an Associated Press report. They said he had purchased a revolver and had filed off the safety catch to insure quick action.

Dr. Romano had an unusually large roll of bills with him when he left his office Tuesday night, they said. He was known at times to carry as much as $10,000 in his wallet. His body was pierced by six bullet wounds. Only three bullets were found, however, and Coroner A. J. Pearce said he was not shot while sitting in his car.

A half dozen motives for the murder are being investigated by police. Theorizers on the killing said that Dr. Romano knew extortionists on Mayfield Hill; that his wife had been threatened, that a woman was mixed up in the murder; and that the doctor had been robbed of his wallet. His watch and $3.84 were found on his person, but not the wallet.

Big Game Hunter

Police learned that Dr. Romano had hunted big game in Mexico, Alaska and Africa. They recalled his surgery saved the life of Frank Brancato, suspected in the triple murder of three bootleggers in 1932. He was a gun fancier who boasted he could "beat the science of police ballistics." Dr. Romano was chairman of a committee which raised [illegible] for the [illegible] Red Cross during the [illegible] campaign. [illegible]

KNOX WILL LIKELY GET SECOND PLACE ON PARTY'S TICKET

He and Vandenberg Mentioned But Michigan Senator Has Said He Does Not Want Nomination.

BORAH SILENT ON CAMPAIGN

By HOWARD J. [illegible]
Associated Press Staff Writer

CONVENTION HALL, CLEVELAND, June 11 — With the nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the presidency conceded on all sides, the Republican convention struggled into late hours today to compose its platform differences, name a ticket and get back home.

Both Col. Frank Knox of Illinois and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan were mentioned as most likely for the vice presidential nomination; but Vandenberg has said repeatedly he would not accept. He urged Knox.

They and all the other erstwhile rivals of the "sunflower candidate" decided not even to have their names presented for President.

Sen. William E. Borah, who has been a big figure in all the proceedings, still would not say whether he would campaign for the ticket.

He seemed satisfied with the platform draft, as it stood before the debate—but said cryptically "the candidate is the platform."

Platform troubles delaying matters, the convention recessed shortly before 3 p. m. until 7 p. m. Then, unless a protracted argument make it impossible, the presidential ticket is expected to be named soon after the platform is approved.

The full platform committee was understood to be having difficulties and so unable to report.

Cowbells Are Ready

The Kansans had a plentiful supply of cowbells on hand for the demonstration. They have been struggling at the leash to put on ever since arriving last week.

Down in th North Carolina section a big sign bore the legend "Off the rocks with Landon and Knox."

The convention appeared ready for anything but business.

Ralph Williams of Oregon said he thought the platform might be ready by 3:30 but he was not sure. No decision had been reached about a recess, he said, it was just a case of "waiting."

An earlier session which met at 11:30 a. m. had to be recessed until mid-afternoon also because the platform was not ready.

The policy subcommittee, worn from its long hours, finally left out any direct mention of the gold standard and made no recommendation of a constitutional amendment for state minimum wage legislation.

Gov. Landon's views have been obtained to the last minute, but were overridden on the amendment suggestion.

Ban on League Hookup

Borah won out for a declaration against joining the League of Nations or the World court, and a pledge to attack the monopoly problem.

Borah released the 21 Wisconsin delegates pledged to him and his 10 from Oregon. Senators Vandenberg and Dickinson already had given up.

The name of Col. Knox was on all tongues for the vice presidential nomination.

The last big uninstructed delegation, California's, met during the excitement and, although no poll was taken, at least 40 of the 44 were listed for Landon.

With the platform bearing nearly final form, after long discussion, there were signs that the whole convention picture soon might resolve itself into a final definite program, which could be ratified by the delegates within a few hours. Final adjournment tonight became a possibility, although it seemed more likely that the last session would be put over until tomorrow.

More About Convention Appears On Pages 6, 13, 16.

Withdraw After Parleys

Conferences among the "non-Landon" leaders in the early morning hours led to the withdrawals. Vandenberg, in carefree mood after a brief rest, told reporters he had already telegraphed congratulations to Gov. Landon.

"We decided to lend whatever impetus we could to the manifest sentiments of the delegates," he said.

All was quiet around the deserted Knox headquarters at the time. Today he was in seclusion away from the busy convention scene.

Informed of the possibility of a Landon-Knox ticket, Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the national committee said this agreement would lead to swift conclusion of the convention.

He expected little trouble in adoption of the platform by the full convention.

No Bitterness Results

The convention, he said, had resulted in no lasting bitterness be-

OHIOANS CLIMB LANDON WAGON

Schorr Releases Delegates Pledged to Taft as Other Aspirants Stampede.

FAVORITE SON APPROVES

Announces He Will Second Nomination of Kansan in Name of Ohio.

By H. H. [illegible]
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, June 11 — The Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention swung onto the bandwagon of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas today when State Chairman E. D. Schorr announced delegates were released from their pledged support of Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, "favorite son" candidate.

Taft himself announced he would second the Kansan's nomination for Ohio. Although he is not a delegate, Ohioans explained they would ask the chair to give Taft the privilege of the floor for his seconding speech.

"Everything has worked out satisfactorily," Schorr told a meeting of the Buckeye delegates. "It will not be necessary to conduct a formal caucus concerning the favorite son pledge."

Won't Nominate Taft

Schorr asserted the release applies to first-ballot voting and, therefore, Taft's name would not be placed in nomination.

The announcement definitely swung Ohio's delegation in the bandwagon of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas. Forty-seven Ohio delegates were pledged to Taft and five to Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho.

Borah headquarters announced simultaneously that the senator had released delegates pledged to support him.

Taft, Schorr, National Committeeman Frank F. Taggart and other Ohio leaders conferred last night and early today on the problem.

Some Taft delegates pointed out that they were elected on a pledge to vote for Taft, at least on the first ballot.

A quiet boom for Taft as the vice presidential nominee continued. Ohio delegates reported that they were making contacts with delegates from other states in Taft's behalf.

The delegation attended a dinner in honor of Taggart last night. The dinner was arranged by the central committee for delegates, alternates and their wives.

ROOSEVELT LAUDS PIONEERS OF TEXAS

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex., June 11—President Roosevelt paid tribute to Texas pioneers on the battlefields of San Jacinto today, asserting "liberty-loving people will always do battle for principles they believe to be right."

He spoke at the site where Sam Houston defeated Santa Anna.

"Men fought here for principles they loved more dearly than their own lives," Roosevelt said. "Civilization, alas, has not yet made it unnecessary for men to die in battle to sustain principles. It is, however, my hope that in this generation the United States, by its own example, can maintain and help to maintain principles by means of peace rather than by means of war.

"The pioneers and the liberators of Texas, looking down on us today, would, I am certain, say amen to that."

Grand Order, a Masonic Affiliate, Will Bring Lodge Leaders From All Parts of Ohio.

Marion will be host to the annual session of the grand guardian council of Ohio, Order of Job's Daughters, on June 19-20, at the Masonic temple, a meeting which will bring to the city at least 200 women and girls and prominent Masons from over the state.

Heading the distinguished visitors will be Mrs. Henrietta Frey of Hartford, Wis., supreme guardian, J. G. Gusweiler of Cincinnati, associate grand guardian, and Mrs. Ethel T. Mead Mick of Cleveland, founder of the Order of Job's Daughters.

The formal opening program on Friday night will be one of the most colorful of any that has been conducted at recent conventions held in Marion, with supreme and grand council officers taking part.

FAMILIAR CONVENTION FIGURES

It was something akin to a reunion when Charles G. Dawes, the only living vice president, and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of New Mexico, met on the floor of the Republican convention in Cleveland for both are veteran convention goers. Mrs. Simms, former congresswoman from Illinois and daughter of the late Mark Hanna, is one of those who will second the nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon for the presidency. She and Dawes are shown in animated conversation. (Associated Press Photo)

The Stars Say--

For Friday, June 12.

ACCORDING TO to lunar transits, this day may unfold many anxious, frustrating and adverse situations, which must be wisely combatted. This condition besets business, financial and employment, as well as private life. It is advisable to defer or postpone matters where possible and to meet essential activities with restraint, calm judgment and control. Shun speculation and conserve the funds.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which it will be difficult to make much progress, owing to adverse and ominous conditions generally. It would be well to meet with equanimity and composure, shunning strife and impetuosity, guarding the finances and awaiting a more fortuitious planetary situation.

A child born on this day is likely to have a serious and contemplative nature. It may be gentle and kind but fond of its own company and pursuits, which may be spiritual or mystical, perhaps poetic.

HOLDS MY FALSE TEETH TIGHTER AND LONGER

I've tried several kinds of powders to hold my false teeth. When I tried FASTEETH I found no one powder that does not thin or wash away, but "stays put" all day. It gives a most pleasant feeling, a real sense of security as it holds and holds and holds. Breath is always pleasant. If anyone with loose-fitting false teeth wants all day comfort and a real stay they can fit, insist upon FASTEETH at any good drug store.—Adv.

BE FRANK! ARE YOU EASILY EXCITED?

There are two general types of people. One is the calm, stoic type that never gets excited very much about anything. Then, there is the sensitive type that is easily upset or excited, and suffers from high nerve tension, which is just another name for nerve pains such as headache and neuralgia.

If you are the later type—if an unusually busy day, or worry, or emotion causes a nervous headache, you will find Capudine just made to suit your needs. Two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water will quickly soothe the tense nerves, relieve the headache, and bring welcome relaxation. Capudine is gentle and contains no narcotics. *Try it today. HOOVER GREETS FRIENDS ON ARRIVAL IN CLEVELAND turn this nation from the demoralization of relief to the contentment of constructive jobs."

HOOVER'S FREEDOM ADDRESS PRAISED

Excepts from Address

Following are main portions of Mr. Hoover's address last night:

In this room rests the greatest responsibility that has come to a body of Americans in three generations. In the lesser sense this is a convention of a great political party. But in the larger sense it is a convention of Americans to determine the fate of those ideals for which this nation was founded. That far transcends all partisanship.

I have given about four years to research into the new deal, trying to determine what its ultimate objectives were, what sort of a system it is imposing on this country.

To some people it appears to be a strange interlude in American history in that it has no philosophy, that it is sheer opportunism, that it is a muddle of a spoils system, of emotional economics, of reckless adventure, of unctuous claims to a monopoly of human sympathy, of greed for power, of a desire for popular acclaim and an aspiration to make the front pages of the newspapers. That is the most charitable view.

Lead to Destruction

To other people it appears to be a cold-blooded attempt by starry-eyed boys to infect the American people by a mixture of European ideas, flavored with our native predilection to get something for nothing.

You can choose either one you like best. But the first is the road of chaos which leads to the second. Both of these roads lead over the same grim precipice that is the crippling and possibly the destruction of the freedom of men.

Which of these interpretations is accurate is even disputed by alumni of the new deal who have graduated for conscience's sake or have graduated by request.

In Central Europe the march of Socialist or Fascist dictatorships and their destruction of liberty did not set out with guns and armies. Dictators began their ascent to the seats of power through the elections provided by liberal institutions. Their weapons were promise and hate. They offered the mirage of Utopia to those in distress. They flung the poison of class hatred. They may not have maimed the bodies of men but they maimed their souls.

Refers to 1932

The 1932 campaign was a pretty good imitation of this first stage of European tactics. You may recall the promises of the abundant life, the propaganda of hate.

If there are any items in this stage of the march of European collectivism that the new deal has not imitated it must have been an oversight.

But at this point this parallel with Europe halts—at least for the present. The American people should thank almighty God for the Constitution and the supreme court. They shold be grateful to a courageous press.

You might contemplate what would have happened if Mr. Roosevelt could have appointed enough supreme court justices in the first year of his administration. Suppose these new deal acts had remained upon the statute books. We would have been a regimented people. Have you any assurance that he will not have the appointments if he is reelected?

The succeeding stages of violence and outrage by which European despotisms have crushed all liberalism and all freedom have filled our headlines for years.

Have Ideas Changed?

But what comes next in the United States? Have the new dealers dropped their ideas of centralization of government? Have they abandoned the notion of regimenting the people into a planned economy? Has that greed for power become cooled by the resistance of a people with a heritage of liberty? Will they resume if they are reelected?

When we examine the speeches of Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes and others, we see little indications of repentance.

President Roosevelt finds no difficulty in disciplining his officials. Witness the prompt dismissal of those who did not publicly agree with him. The President will not discharge these men on whom his new deal is dependent. No matter what the new platform of the new deal party may say, the philosophy of collectivism and that greed for power are in the blood of some part of these men. Do you believe that if reelected they intend to stand still among the wreckage of their dreams? In the words of Mr. Hopkins, perhaps, we are too profanely dumb to understand.

Says It's Muddle

So much for the evidence that the new deal is a definite attempt to replace the American system of freedom with some sort of European planned existence. But let us assume that the explanation is simply hit-and-run opportunism, spoils system and muddle.

We can well take a moment to explore the prospects of American ideals of liberty and self-government under that philosophy. We may take only seven short examples:

The supreme court has reversed some 10 or 12 of the new deal major enactments. Many of these acts were a violation of the rights of men and of self-government. Despite the sworn duty of the executive and congress to defend these rights they have sought to take them into their own hands. That is an attack on the foundations of freedom.

More than this, the independence of the congress, the supreme court, and the executive are pillars at the door of liberty. For three years the word "must" has invaded the independence of congress. And the congress has abandoned its responsibility to check even the expenditures of money. They have turned open appropriations into personal power. These are destructions of the very safeguards of free people.

Labels Outlay Waste

We have seen these gigantic expenditures and this torrent of waste pile up a national debt which two generations cannot repay. One time I told a Democratic congress that "you cannot spend yourselves into prosperity." You will recall that advice did not take then. It hasn't taken yet.

Billions have been spent to prime the economic pump. It did employ a horde of paid officials upon the pump handle. We have seen the frantic attempts to find new taxes on the rich, yet three-quarters of the bills will be sent to the average man and the poor. He and his wife and grandchildren will be giving a quarter of all their working days to pay taxes. Freedom to work for himself is changed into a slavery of work for the follies of government.

Say Relief Political

We have seen an explosive inflation of bank credits by this government borrowing. We have seen varied steps toward currency inflation that have already enriched the speculator and deprived the poor. If this is to continue the end result is the tears and anguish of universal bankruptcy and distress. No democracy in history has survived its final stages.

We have seen the building up of a horde of political officials. We have seen the pressures upon the helpless and destitute to trade political support for relief. Both are a pollution of the very fountains of liberty.

Can democracy stand the strain of Mother Hubbard economics for long? Any examination of the economic muddle of the past three years shows the constant thread of price fixing, restriction of production and drive against small business. That is the soul of monopoly. That has maintained from the NRA to the last tax bill. These are old tricks, no new disguise which put shackles upon the freedom of men.

Says Honor Violated

In desperate jumping from one muddle to another we have seen repeated violation of morals and honor in government. Do I need recall the repudiation of obligations, the clipping of the coin, the violation of trust to guard the Constitution and the coercion of the voter? When the standards of honor and morals fail in government they fail in the people.

The new deal may be a revolutionary design to replace the American system with despotism. It may be the dream stuff of a false liberalism. It may be the valor of muddle. Their relationship to each other, however, is exactly the sisterhip of the witches who brewed the cauldron of powerful trouble for Macbeth. Their product is the poisoning of Americanism.

The President has constantly reiterated that he will not retreat. For months, to be sure, there has been a strange quiet. Just as the last campaign was fought on promises that have been broken, so apparently this campaign is to be slipped through by evasion.

People Should Know

But the American people have the right to know now, while they still have power to act. What is going to be done after election with these measures which the Constitution forbids and the people by their votes have never authorized? What do the new dealers propose to do with these instable currencies, unbalanced budgets, debts and taxes? Fifty words would make it clear.

Surely the propoganda agencies which emit half a million words a day could find room for these fifty. I notice they recently spent three hundred words on how to choose a hat. It is slightly more important to know the fate of a nation.

You have the duty to determine the principles upon which the Republican party will stand. You make the laws of the party. Whether it is within the party or a government, our system is a government of laws and not of men. This party holds its promises.

The immediate task is to set the country on the road of genuine recovery from the paths of instability. We have enough inventions and enough accumulated needs to start the physical rebuilding of America.

Can't Compromise

There are some principles that can not be compromised. Either we shall have a society based upon ordered liberty and the initiative of the individual, or we shall have a planned society that means dictation no matter what you call it or who does it. There is no half-way ground. They can not be mixed. Government must either release the powers of the individual for honest achievement or the very forces it creates will drive it inexorably to lay its paralyzing hand more and more heavily upon individual effort.

Let us not blink the difficulties. Throughout the land there are multitudes of people who have listened to the songs of sirens. Thousands of men, if put to the choice, would willingly exchange liberty for fancied security even under dictatorship. Under their distress they doubt the value of their own rights and liberties. They do not see the Constitution as a fortress for their deliverance. They have been led to believe that it is an iron cage against which the wings of idealism beat in vain.

They do not realize that their only relief and their hope of economic security can come only from the enterprise and initiative of free men.

Freedom Is Source

Let this convention declare without shrinking, the source of economic prosperity is freedom. Man must be free to use his own powers in his own way. Free to think, to speak, to worship. Free to plan his own life. Free to use his own initiative. Free to dare in his own adventure. It is the essence of true liberalism that these freedoms are limited by the rights of others.

Freedom both requires and makes increased responsibilities. There is no freedom from exploitation of the weak or from the dead hand of bureaucracy.

There's something vastly bigger than payrolls, than economics, than materialism, at issue in this campaign. The free spirit of men is the source of self-respect, of sturdiness, of moral and spiritual progress. With the inspirations of freedom come fidelity to public trust, honor and morals in government.

The social order does not rest upon orderly economic freedom alone. It rests even more upon the ideals and character of a people. Governments must express those ideals in frugality, in justice, in courage, in decency, and in regard for the less fortunate, and above all in honor. Nations die when these weaken, no matter what their material prosperity.

Fundamental American liberties are at stake. Is the Republican party ready for the issue? Are you willing to cast your all upon the issue, or would you falter and look back? Will you, for expediency's sake, also offer will-o'-the-wisps which beguile the people? Or have you determined to enter in a holy crusade for liberty which shall determine the future and the perpetuity of a nation of free men? That star shell fired today over the no man's land of world despair would illuminate the world with hope.

Republicans and fellow Americans! This is your call. Stop the retreat. In the chaos of doubt, confusion and fear, yours is the task to command. Stop the retreat, and turning the eyes of your fellow Americans to the sunlight of freedom, lead the attack to retake, recapture and reman the citadels of liberty. Thus can America be preserved. Thus can the peace, plenty and security be reestablished and expanded. Thus can the opportunity, the inheritance and the spiritual future of your children be guaranteed. And thus you will win the gratitude of posterity, and the blessing of almighty God.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Nervous Child.

"Nervousness" in children is a common complaint. Too often it is accepted as a trivial disorder and attracts little attention. This is unfortunate, because what may seem to be unimportant may be the forerunner of something really serious.

Many children develop a habit of dropping things, or of stuttering. The mother may scold such a child, thinking the weakness is due to nervousness. Many of these children are victims of chorea or "St. Vitus' dance."

Rheumatic fever is another serious infection of childhood. It is especially dangerous when neglected, perhaps leading to permanent damage of the heart. If recognized in its early stages and treatment is applied, serious complications can be prevented.

It is common for parents to attribute muscular pains to rapid growing. Bear in mind that there is no such thing as "growing pains"; if a child complains of muscular pains, medical attention is advised.

A child who complains of muscular pains, twitchings, dropping objects and stuttering is not nervous merely, but is really a sick child. The poor youngster requires medical care and constant attention.

Of course, some children complain of pain in their legs after hard play. Under such circumstances it may be no more than natural fatigue. But the symptoms may be due to infection or other disease.

Do not confuse nervousness with "tempers." Often a child is excused on the ground that he is "highly strung." He may refuse food, lose weight, and become susceptible to many infections.

I do not mean to leave you with the impression that children who appear to be nervous are suffering from serious diseases. But I do mean to imply that every child who shows signs of "nervousness" needs a doctor's help. If the child is a victim of temper tantrums, bedwetting, hysteria, dropping objects, stuttering and failure to gain in weight, consult with your doctor. It may be that he will advise diet, medicine or prolonged rest.

The nervous child should have more attention, of course, than the normal one. But do not make too much fuss over him. Do not arouse in his mind the idea that he differs from his playmates. It takes a lot of tact and common sense to deal wisely with a nervous child.

AND DON'T FORGET when fat leaves—vital organs won't be crowded and hindered from proper functioning — you're apt to live years longer and be free from those ailments so common in fat folks—high blood pressure, shortness of breath, acidity, indigestion, fatigue and headaches.

Contrast

While Republicans meet in Cleveland to devise ways and means of ousting President Roosevelt and his followers the leader of another nation appears to have survived the storms that blew about him In fact, Stanley Baldwin prime minister of Great Britain seems to be sitting on top of the world sure of his job until the end of the present parliament if he wants it although it is expected he will resign after the coronation next May

A few weeks ago Mr Baldwin appeared to be on his way out Opposition blasts calculated to wither him had stimulated prophets to write stories about his probable successor Neville Chamberlain Today he has back in his cabinet Sir Samuel Hoare the man whose action in the Ethiopian crisis started the bombardment against Mr Baldwin Within the last two weeks the Thomas budget scandal scattered the fragment of one political career to the four winds but the prime minister remained

Strangely a search of the records reveals nothing certainly nothing sensational that Mr Baldwin has done to regain prestige He has dodged many crucial issues has admitted several blunders and is head of the government which saddled the country with new taxes But in all his troubles never has he flung his arms about and ranted against fate Never has he appeared to bully or bluster opposition into silence Always he has been a calm and dignified although slightly harassed English gentleman

There's only one conclusion The British are queer They like their public men to be quiet and unexcitable Negative virtue apparently does attract Britons

It Is the Heat

If the United States meteorologist at Des Moines Ia. can be relied upon persons alive today might live to note the passing of that time honored phrase It's not the heat, it's the humidity Perhaps it is about time for the funeral That old familiar phrase has grown gray in service It should be weak in the wind wabbly in the knees and tattered and torn around the edges Since it sees so much service every summer, at least it deserves to be pensioned if not buried

Why is the phrase likely to fade? Charles D Reed the meteorologist supplies the answer In studying drouth damaged crops general weather conditions and other related factors Mr Reed has come to a positive conclusion He believes that excessive heat not lack of rainfall is the main cause of crop damage in a drouth Throughout his report he stresses the satanic role heat plays in the lives of men whole showing how human beings animals and crops need moisture to counteract the dryness of heat

All appears to be well for the foes of faded phrases If only Mr Reed could convince moppers of brows that he is right when the mercury hangs around 80 but perspiration oozes out of every pore

Foes

Newspapermen unfortunately don't have a word for it The best they can do is to describe as foes all politicians who are disagreeing with each other at a given time The word is not accurate

It is not accurate because the same men who are called foes one day may be the closest of political allies the next day Once the primary—or the convention—is over antagonists pool their resources and start to work for each other

Much has been written about foes' as the Republican convention assembles in Cleveland One might get the idea that politicians are scowling at each other ferociously over the ramparts of overstuffed furniture in hotel lounges It should be borne in mind of course that nothing so dramatic is taking place

A great number of men and women intensely interested in the welfare of the Republican party have assembled to set the party's course for the next four years Obviously being alive and active they have differences of opinion some of them deep and bitter Occasionally of course disagreements become so serious they are not smoothed over

But not even the most apprehensive alarmist has predicted there will be a major disruption in the Republican party in 1936 Anything can happen but it probably won't In the meantime the most important fact as the convention opens is its spirit. If anyone imagined Republicans were going to face the campaign as men doomed to wage a losing to save their honor he must be disappointed.

A brand new factor has been introduced into the national political situation—a minority party with a conspicuously stronger morale Even if there were real foes within the party they would have trouble doing any important damage Once more Republicans are beginning to draw energy from sources outside of and independent of the party organization Their conversion operates more auspiciously than most of them dared to believe it could

Needed But Not Available.

Between the roar of the congressional machine rushing down to adjournment and the clamor of Republicans convening at Cleveland a civil service bill in the senate has passed almost unnoticed Introduced by Senators O'Mahoney and LaFollette it is designed to put all regular governmental employes under permanent civil service Under this proposal all classifications of postmasters would be placed under civil service by Jan 1 1938 and the President empowered to take the same steps with regard to a number of other agencies A degree of protection also would be given to present jobholders

Other useful provisions fill out a bill which appears to be a giant step forward toward solution of a vexatious problem The pity is that passage is not likely to be effected even if congress remains in session another week or two

Promises have been made that the measure will be put on the legislative calendar for next January Meanwhile skeptics hardly can avoid the thought that such a far reaching proposal is going to be good campaign ammunition for the administration leaders who have indorsed it It is to be hoped on all sides the measure will not be dropped after it has served the purposes of the campaigners

As has been said before several bills meriting careful study might be swept through congress by the adjournment hurricane It is to be regretted that these doubtful measures could not be shelved until January and the civil service proposal given preferred status

Vital Statistics

Announcement of April birth and death statistics for New York state spotlights a fact commonly known but widely ignored The gap between the two figures rapidly is closing For instance the New York statement shows there were 13 4 births per 1 000 population and 12 4 deaths

While the New York ratio might not apply to the whole country it will be recalled that from time to time the same trend has been shown in studies made of other areas In fact much evidence can be pyramided to prove that the Malthusian theories of population increase no longer are valid Mankind except in a few European countries in which the government is stimulating the competitive urge among parents has reached the stage at which it maintains an almost stable population It would not be surprising even if some country—for a short period at least—should report a decrease

Primarily such reflections are sociological Actually they have much to do with the price of butter and eggs As economists point out and as politicians might well remember stabilization of population presents a challenge to the industrial and agricultural life of a nation No longer for example can politicians truthfully paint a roseate picture of unlimited expansion for the country under their benign guidance

With immigration dwindling almost to zero and population moving toward stabilization economic action must be calculated in terms of an almost fixed number of human beings Politicians are not likely to think of Malthus or the later day prophets but they may live to find their dreams imperilled by those vital statistics

"Clinch" for Landon Not Needed

Brisbane Says Pennsylvania Votes Settled Matters for Those Who Did Not Know It Was Already Settled.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Fifty Pennsylvania votes going to Landon was yesterday afternoon's news that clinched the Landon nomination for anybody who did not know that it was already clinched

More important news indicated that one very important Republican Senator Borah, will have an opportunity to tell the delegates and the world at large anything that he may care to say

Representatives of Governor Landon insist that whoever has a right to speak must be heard and want the speaking done not in a back room but on the convention floor where everybody may hear

Somebody suggested that the oldest active Republican in America should sit on the platform in Cleveland

To this suggestion made by Mr Barton some one replied The oldest member of the Republican party is John D Rockefeller There must be older Republicans than John D Rockefeller living but there is no other that having worked hard all his life still works hard after giving more than five hundred million dollars to science education and the fight against disease

A few more old Republicans of that kind would help

The United States polo team beats England Gratifying not important Riding on ponies and knocking a little white ball over the grass means little more than good exercise and your picture in the paper

If plucky young Americans of the polo team had beaten Englishmen Italians Frenchmen Russians and Germans in the air that would be worth while

Some of the young gentlemen will doubtless decide to move up high above the grass where courage and skill are important

All important educator tells New York students The important business of schools is to build leaders

Unfortunately you cannot build leaders they must build themselves and they can do it only by leading just as they can learn to swim only by swimming

If you could teach men to think and lead that would simplify many problems unfortunately you can do neither Thought and leadership are self taught.

Edward VIII new King of England goes through at the motions that have to do with being a king and does it good naturedly Dressed in his scarlet and gold kilted uniform as colonel of the Seaforth Highlanders he rode through London in his state carriage of gold with no fewer than four footmen sitting on it An Irish guard of honor presented arms and while the King sat on his throne God Save the King was played

England believes in keeping up old customs

Mr Dewey who sent the head of New York's vice ring and eight well paid assistants to prison to stay as long as they live unless they can buy their way out says one of his assistants was offered a New York supreme court judgeship if he would reveal the prosecution's secrets The offer was backed with another offer to put to $250 000 cash to guarantee that the judgeship would be forthcoming

The idea of offering a supreme court judgeship in return for favors to criminals is new

Citizens will wonder who was able to offer the judgeship with a quarter of a million dollar guarantee and whether judgeships have ever been disposed of in this fashion before

* * *

France has a new problem Extreme radicals that won the election demand and get the forty hour week for French workers with no cut in wages If you pay more for work you must charge more for goods and less radical Frenchmen are afraid that France will lose her foreign trade if she has to put her prices up especially as her money theoretically on a gold basis is high in price

Over there they know that our dollar is worth 59 cents so the French franc sells for about 7 cents

It is a complicated world with so many nations using so many kinds of money worse than France before Louis XI

* * *

Spain proves that it is possible for a country to be too radical for its own good Labor troubles and discussions have put one million Spanish workers out of their jobs a good many for Spain and Spanish radicalism goes beyond other kinds many having been killed by terrorists

Here we envy any country that talks about one million idle since we are alleged to have more idle than all other civilized countries put together but at least we have no open killing by professed terrorists only our racketeers and occasional secret society murders

Men out of work in Germany number only 1 491 201 According to the labor union authorities men out of work in the United States number about 12 000 000 How do you explain that?

Difference in population does not explain it Can it be that buying yourself out of a depression is not practical?

Behind the News

Spotlight Turned on Cleveland G O P Convention

By PAUL MALLON

CLEVELAND O June 11—Delicate preparations were made for Mr Hoover's appearance before this convention The convention leaders wanted him here They also need him in their coming campaign They think they cannot win without him

But they want him in both places as an elder statesman—and not as a candidate

That is why they sent a man out to see him some time back to sound him out Hoover soon caught the unspoken question in his caller's mind put a friendly hand on his arm and said substantially this You don't need to worry about me Don't let any stampede for me occur in that convention

Soft Pedal

A few hours before Mr Hoover's appearance one of those deep dark rumors was spread through the convention It undoubtedly originated in the alcoholic inspiration of a delegate the source from which most convention rumors fly

This one was a whisper that Landon was not to be nominated Watch the New York Pennsylvania and Ohio delegations No names were mentioned but these three delegations were supposed to be prepared to start a Hoover stampede

The Landon people took steps to stamp out that one right away Word was passed down the line to loyal delegates to give Hoover a big hand but not too big

Bargaining

The inner trouble of this convention is the same as all of them only worse Everybody with one or more votes has been trying to chisel as much of a deal for them as he can

Blunt ex Senator David Reed (he was so frank that he talked himself out of his seat in the senate) let that black cat out of the bag in a typical Reed speech to the Pennsylvania delegation some time back Reed told the Keystone staters they should not let anyone know how they stood because other delegations did and failed to get anything in return for their votes

Actually his quotes were I think we should keep our thoughts to ourselves One or two delegations on impulse have taken a poll and are now utterly neglected in Cleveland

NOTE—Twenty four hours later the Pennsylvania delegates insisted on a poll and showed 66 per cent for Landon

Wheedling

And to show you the absurd lengths to which the bargaining instinct is sometimes carried listen to this one

The most galling personal grievance which Senator Borah has had against Landon is Walter F Brown the now ousted Ohio committeeman Personally Borah attributes most of his Ohio troubles to Brown If it had not been for Brown the Idahoan believes he would have far more than five delegates from Ohio

So when Brown was up for reelection here as Ohio national committeeman the Borah delegates had a good chance to get even by casting all their votes against him But did they? They did not The balloting was secret and the votes were later torn up but you may take it from an excellent authority that four of the Borah delegates voted for Brown

The reason is said to be that they figured he might get them some Borah votes out of the delegation on the floor of the convention

Politics is a funny business

Promotion

A non political business executive looked out over this Republican convention the second night and could contain himself no longer He asked in amazement Why do they have conventions? It seems to be an archaic and silly way to choose presidents of the United States It is not efficient It is not modern

The inside answer is they do not hold conventions solely to choose a presidential nominee but to promote ballyhoo for their ideals This will be more obvious at Philadelphia a few days hence than it is here There is not even a good excuse for getting Democratic delegates in from all over the country to go through the motions of renominating Mr Roosevelt except the valid one of ballyhooing his political stand

The free newspaper and radio space which the Republicans have received in a few days here is more than they were able to get from months of carefully planned publicity

Lost Name

One name you seldom hear mentioned here is that of Lowden The popular Illinois farmer was the center of advance gossip concerning first and second place on the ticket

What seems to have stopped it is a personal report which has been spread through the convention by two Illinois delegates who recently

O O McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks

NEW YORK June 11—Dwight Deere Wiman is the dilletante of the theatrical producers And what is more has a flair for the theater that has resulted in several hits This year's musical sensation On Your Toes is one of his brewings The ingredients are his personal selections

He is as Ring Lardner might say of the Deere plow people and has always luxuriated a silk stockinged sheen The stage became a hobby when he was in college and everything about it from star to flyman has always absorbed him He was in a hyphenated word stage struck

Long before he dabbled in the production end he was one of the immaculate first nighters the ardent sort who drifted to the stage entrance afterward merely to see the players file out. Aside from John Hay Whitney he is the most heavily bankrolled entrepeneur

As cultured a producer as New York has ever known was the aristocratic Bostoner Winthrop Ames His office had the serenity of a savant's cloister He espoused the Little Theatre and was successful The most outspoken and least affected of the guild is the veteran Al Woods

Such a keen observer of the stage as Robert E Sherwood declares the most thoroughly stage struck performers he has ever known are Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt Every performance of them is The Great Adventure whether played in New York or Hobokus Their life work is to put on a show—and they do it both on and off Their quirks of vanity their feigned indifference to critics are all a part of their act And they are people of almost the precisely taut temperaments who have made marriage a rousing success

* * *

New York's most consistent mayorality heckler is a titupply 51 year old partly deaf man by the name of Stewart Brown He has badgered every mayor since and including John Purroy Mitchell He is president of a real estate organization and his hecklings usually take place at the Board of Estimate meetings Twice he has been picked up bodily upon orders of the mayors and carried from the room Usually kicking and squealing with vigor Often they have thought of barring him but he threatens court proceedings and has his way

Most people who are targets for heckling lose their temper which is defeat Bryan in early days was frequently interrupted from the audience He always stopped and bowed his head as in prayer and this put the taunters on the defensive for the audience always for an underdog booed him down Still the most adroit parrier of a heckler's thrusts was Julius Tannen He went after them hammer and tongs and always won Often theater managers employed hecklers to annoy the monologist just to inspire him to put on a show It was better than his act. Another clever heckler router was Wilton Lackeye He was often framed at Lambs Gambols to hear his replies He could wither them in a jiffy

South Changing Viewpoint

Many Democrats Willing To Drop Old Convention Rule

BY PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON June 11—There is a lot of chafing among southern Democrats against abolition of the two-thirds rule at the national convention but a growing number are willing to drop precedent to prevent its use in future against a candidate of their own

From pre-Civil war days the South has insisted on the rule requiring nomination by two-thirds of the delegates Should a bare majority be sufficient to nominate the presidential candidate southern states would face the possibility of being forced by the north and west to accept a candidate wholly distasteful to them

There has been a change of sentiment in some sections of the south in recent years and there arises perhaps a new reason. Some of the congressional friends of Senator Byrd of Virginia would like to see him a presidential candidate in 1940 They foresee it might be difficult however to amass a two-thirds majority for him Byrd himself is opposing change

Bank On Quiet Convention

Those seeking to upset the century old tradition are banking on a quiet session at Philadelphia and the support of President Roosevelt to smooth the way Since Mr Roosevelt's nomination is now a certainty they cannot be accused of trying to strike out the rule just to insure a Roosevelt victory

The two-thirds rule was adopted, most historians agree for the specific purpose of saving Andrew Jackson's heir apparent, Martin Van Buren

Jackson wanted a change of running mates for his second term He had broken with John C Calhoun vice president during his first term and wanted Van Buren instead Van Buren is credited with suggesting the rule to block Calhoun

Van Buren Lost Out

The rule was adopted Van Buren was nominated and elected vice president Then in 1836 he was elected President The rule turned around to bite him later A majority of the delegates to the 1844 convention were pledged to him but he could not rally two-thirds The nomination—and presidency—went to James K Polk

Only one time since has it happened that a candidate who mustered a majority failed to get the required two-thirds That was in the memorable Baltimore convention of 1912 when Champ Clark amassed a majority but could not get two-thirds of the delegates Woodrow Wilson emerged with the nomination

The selection of Senator Bennett Champ Clark as chairman of the rules committee for the 1936 Democratic convention was a touch of poetic justice He is the son of Champ Clark The rules committee has first chance to act upon the resolution proposing the end of the two thirds rule

Rebirth

The death of Speaker Joe Byrns spelled to many veteran house members the end of a persuasive leadership and the rebirth of the whip crackers

Byrns was a type of leader much removed from his outstanding predecessors since the turn of the century

Where party regularity was demanded on penalty of legislative punishment by Uncle Joe Cannon Champ Clark Nicholas Longworth John N Garner and to a less extent by Frederick H Gillett and Henry T Rainey Speaker Byrns tuned in on a softer dial

Longworth usually had a strong Republican majority most of them habituated to party regularity

Garner with less regular followers had a peculiar advantage—and plied it skillfully—in that his majority during the last year of President Hoover's administration was only 219 to 216 To every Democratic member that needed regularity or loss of control Garner saw to it they were regular

Youngsters Individualistic

Byrns and Rainey succeeded to the overwhelming majority swept in by the Roosevelt landslide It was an unusual majority in that it contained besides a framework of skilled legislators a host of members not used to any type of party leadership and many disposed to be far more individualistic than their leaders would have liked

Byrns as floor leader and Rainey used persuasion rather than threats of punishment of recalcitrant members when few favors were available That was his method as speaker

It was not a fast working process in the beginning and there came complaints from administrative sources that the leadership was not strong enough that the whip should be applied

Byrns pursued his own way and followed it further when he became speaker

He measured his success by the number of bills he put through in exactly the form in which the administration sought them Included were the social security bill the CCC act and more recently the corporation surplus tax It was in the senate that real trouble began

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 11—This town's waitresses are thinking of suggesting a plank for the Republican platform, reading: "We hereby resolve to be patient with waitresses and not expect filet mignon to be served up well done, in a half minute."

"You'd think there were 100,000 instead of 10,000," sighed one fleet-footed lass, as she took a second off from her chores

"Everybody's in a hurry and nobody knows what they want."

But she cast a vote for the Republicans on two issues, they are "pretty sober" and there are "no fresh guys among them"

• • •

Cleveland's merchants are wearing a broad smile, official estimates say the Republican convention will bring between $800,000 and $1,000,000 into the city. Delegates and visitors are spending between $100,000 and $165,000 a day.

Madge Hints She May Be Able To Help Out Brixton.

IF I HAD dared I would have cried aloud in sheer joyous relief as Samuel Brixton asked me if I would swear that I had told him the truth concerning the inevitable attitude of a loving wife and grown children toward insurance money given them because of the self-destruction of the husband and father.

I had not won a decisive battle yet, I told myself warningly, but the first skirmish was mine. He evidently was giving grave attention to my statement that Helena, Carolyn and Ronald would not touch a cent of his insurance money that would come from his death by his own hand, that they would feel it was blood money, and would rather starve than use a penny of it.

"I will swear by everything I hold holy and dear," I told him solemnly, "that I would feel that way, and that I am sure your family shares that feeling."

He had been leaning forward as he put the question, his whole attitude tense and watchful. But at my answer, he slumped against the back of the seat as if something had snapped inside him.

Brixton Worries

"I never thought of that angle of it," he said. "I guess you're right at that. But, what am I going to do now?"

His voice was almost a shriek, and I made no answer. There was a quality in it that told me he wanted none. His question had not been addressed to me, but to himself and to his Maker, and I realized that he must try to answer it himself and become exhausted in the trying before I could venture to thrust an aiding hand—which might so easily be a meddlesome one—into his problem.

We came out of the parkway and its approaches to a tangle of traffic which lasted beyond Norwalk. And during that stretch of miles, there was not a word spoken. Then we swung into a broad clear space, and as if our renewed speed had loosened the iron bands which he had forged around his determination to go to his grave without protest, he broke into vehement speech.

"And to think!" he exclaimed, "that if I could lay my hands upon a paltry twenty-five thousand dollars, I could save the day!"

My pulses leaped like mad things. On my own account I would have been hard put to raise a tenth of that sum in haste. But—I knew where there was such a sum, although I knew equally well that I must say nothing definite to Samuel Brixton of its existence until I should have consulted Lillian.

Needs Money

On one point I had no doubt, basing my conviction upon the reputation for financial shrewdness and the ability to make money which Samuel Brixton possessed. If he said that he could save the day if he had twenty-five thousand dollars, I was sure that I would be justified in getting it for him, if I could, even if he had been unable to raise it elsewhere.

But he was speaking again, and although my eyes were glued to the road, my ears did me good service. His voice was distinctly audible, and I listened to him carefully, storing every word in my memory.

"If it only were the old times," he said. "I could have raised five times that sum without turning a hand. But the banks have clamped down, and everybody else is holding on to what they have except upon the most gilt-edged security.

"I've seen it coming for a long time," he said, unconsciously repeating the words he had written to his secretary, "and I thought I could beat it. I'll tell you frankly, if I could have gotten hold of those bonds in Marion's strong box, they would have turned the trick, and I could have given them back later with a handsome profit to her.

Madge Believes Him

"Of course, legally, they weren't mine, but morally, if you could use the word in connection with either Tom Morton or me, I did have a claim to half of them. But I never would have bothered with them if I hadn't been desperate, and I would have given them all back when I had turned my trick. But I don't suppose you believe that, and I don't blame you."

It was the first opportunity he had given me to say anything, and I seized it, saying something truthfully which I never thought to say to Samuel Brixton.

"I do believe you," I said earnestly, for his words and manner had held conviction as well as hopelessness. "And you will listen to me for a little while and answer some questions? I am not promising anything definite—I shall have to see some people first, but there is a possibility—yes, I think I might say a probability—that I may be able to help you."

I heard a gasp such as a half-strangled person might give, and then his hoarse voice babbling:

"A chance—a chance to come back—to make things safe for Helena and the kids! If you only would!"

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE Secret Door.

"RODDIE was married," said Hope. "He said, 'Gee, Las, I didn't know you so well I'd ... you were the angel come to ... me.' It was like Roddie—joking at such a time.

"He came through all right, and the first thing he did when he left the hospital was come out to see me. You didn't know. But I had lots of callers, your friends, and Rupert's. Roddie came on three or four afternoons.

"I took him up to my room, and showed him the big book on the family—I was reading it then. We worked out a puzzle in it, a puzzle that seemed to be about the tower. You could see someone else had worked on it. There were pencil-marks, and words that had been erased. Some of the words were in Latin. I would never have noticed the puzzle, buried as it was in the fine print, if I hadn't been reading carefully.

"We discovered the wall-safe by chance studying the diagram, found the screw under the wall near the floor. There was a small ... under there too, and a ... key. It didn't say what they were for. We loved working it out.

"When we turned the screw the door opened—the secret door. Only I didn't know then it was secret. Roddie had some matches, and we went out into the little hall, and down the stair, and along the passage. When we tried to push up the trap-door we saw what the key was for. There was a lock, and the key fitted it but we couldn't turn it, couldn't unlock it. It had been locked so long. Roddie said he would come back another time with a flash.

"Of course I knew that I had found the secret stair, that it hadn't been burned. I knew you didn't know about it—that no one knew except the one who had marked and written in the book."

"Grandfather," thought Dirk.

"It was fun," she added. "It was an adventure Roddie and I were having. I meant to tell you about it as soon as we had finished working it out, but many things happened before that came to pass.

"Roddie brought his flash next time. I held it while he worked with the trap-door. He finally unlocked it, but we couldn't lock it again. We unlocked the door, and came up out of Uncle Pieter's grave.

"The lock was under the lion's head. The long bronze plate was the door that fitted so smoothly into the stone. And there was the inscription....

"It scared us both. Through the cedars we could see men working down on the tracks. It was bright afternoon. We scrambled down the steps as fast as we could, and pulled down the door. We didn't play with the secret any more. When we used that passage again it was not in play.

"I wanted to tell you about it, I wanted most of all because we hadn't been able to lock the trap-door. Any one who knew the secret—any one who guessed it—might get into the house. But by then I was positive you were watching me. I didn't think you'd believe we worked the puzzle out in fun. If you were suspicious of Roddie and me—if you had been told about Roddie—you would believe anything of him, anything wrong.

* * *

"It was that night in the library I became sure it was you watching me, having me followed. You came in on me that night right after I had been talking on the phone with Torrobin, telling him that Roddie was not able to ride in the rodeo, that I would get a physician's certificate saying he was not able. Roddie didn't know I was doing this. Roddie wanted to ride.

"Torrobin informed me that he and Roddie needed money. That perhaps Mr. Jarn would help them out in that respect. I knew then that he knew I was married. But I knew, too, that if I bought him off now, I would have to do it again....and again. Besides, Roddie was booked and meant to ride. I told Torrobin to go ahead. And I called up and got seats for the evening Roddie was to ride.

"You came in then, and there was a minute—perhaps you remember it—when I was about to tell you everything. I was desperate, and I seemed to feel your sympathy, your desire to help me.

"It was then I saw you watching me—watching me in the little mirror on the mantel. Watching me so...I can't describe it. It was as if you were in ambush, and had almost caught me."

"You were nervous and on edge," Dirk said.

"I know. But I knew then—what was true—that it had been you spying on me—not Rupert, not Torrobin."

"Poor Hope! No friend at all—no friend she knew about."

"I had Olga and Pipolo. Only they were away. And I still had hopes of winning Rupert. Elinor's dinner showed me that same night how foolish such hopes were.... The rodeo came, and it was agony seeing Roddie ride the animals no one else wanted. Afterwards I went down to the Garden in Roddie's absence, and saw Torrobin. I gave him a thousand dollars of the money Rupert had given me, and he agreed to go away and leave Roddie alone.

* * *

"Chowdhury had been caught by then, and Torrobin wanted to make a get-away. Torrobin had always said that if he were caught along with Chow, Roddie would go back to Texas. 'And how!' he said. He was always afraid we would tell about his game with Chowdhury. He was always reminding us of what would happen. He reminded me again that day.

"I had no intention of telling, and I knew that Roddie hadn't. I was happy because he was going away and leave Roddie. Adelaide's party was that night. I remember you said I seemed happy. I was happier than I had been for months. I had visions of a big ship taking Roddie and me away. It would take money, but somehow I would get it.

"And then they got Torrobin. They got him as he was boarding a ship himself. He's in jail. He'll never get out. They've got other things on him—a long record of things.

"I read it in the paper when I got back from Big Moose. I was certain it was Chowdhury who gave him away, for Roddie said he had kept in touch with her. But I was frightened, remembering Torrobin's threat, and I couldn't rest till I had got in touch with Roddie. Martin was watching me then, I knew, and I felt I was watched at night, though I never saw any one but once.

"I got Roddie on the phone—the day I read about Torrobin, the day I got back from Big Moose—and I made him come out. Even then, so far as I knew, they were hunting for him."

"That's what made you ill," said Dirk. "Fear for Roddie."

"I thought I would die. But I knew I had to live...Roddie came that night—down by the secret way. It was a terrible night, snowing hard. That was the night Martin heard him. Roddie didn't want to stay. He said he was safe outside. But he stayed. He saw I would die of fear if he left me.

"We carried bedding from a closet in one of the closed rooms. His pallet just fitted across the narrow passage—but you saw it. We found an old lantern, and a kerosene stove. I used to forage for food for him in the dead of night. And books for him to read.

"Even if Torrobin sent them here—here to Lowrie Wood—no one knew about the passage and the stair. But I still wanted to get away—to go away on a ship with Roddie.

"Pipolo was back in town, Pipolo and Olga. Merritt's show had broken up down in Georgia, and they were here, planning to go to Finland and have their own circus. Roddie said they were at Parsin's.

"I slipped away one night—I knew Martin was watching me by day; by night too, for that matter, for hadn't he heard Roddie?—but I went by the front. If I went by the back Roddie would know and go with me, and I felt he mustn't be seen.

More about the visit of the Rev. Mr. Devine comes out tomorrow.

Ohio Oddities

Sandusky is an Indian name meaning cold water and was applied by the Indians to several of their towns near Lake Erie probably because the water of the lake was cold for so great a part of the year. Three of these towns were perpetuated under the Indian names by the whites—these towns being Sandusky, Lower Sandusky and Upper Sandusky.

Due to the creation of counties later, Sandusky became the county seat of Erie county, Lower Sandusky the county seat of Sandusky county and Upper Sandusky the county seat of Wyandot county. Still later the name of Lower Sandusky was changed to Fremont in honor of Gen. J. C. Fremont. And as the county seats of Erie, Sandusky and Wyandot counties are now respectively Sandusky, Fremont and Upper Sandusky.

The insect should not be confused with the true locust, commonly known in the United States as the grasshopper. It was this insect that was referred to in the Bible as occurring in such numbers, and not the 17-year locust or cicada.

Seventeen years ago, that is in 1919, the tiny young, hatching from eggs laid in the twigs of woody plants, entered the ground and began sucking the juices from the roots of trees and shrubs. They went to a depth of perhaps two feet where the annual temperature is practically the same year after year.

Females Are Silent

Their growth has been slow and therefore the sap taken from the roots has not had a noticeable effect on the plants, even though the young cicadas occurred in large numbers. They are now full grown and naught remains except that they dig out of the ground, crawl up a tree trunk or fence post and emerge from their shell-like case to become winged and fully developed individuals.

Immediately after they become full grown the males make their presence known by a shrill, incessant "song." The fact that the female cannot produce sounds accounts for the well-known verse:

"Happy are cicada's lives
For they all have voiceless wives"

The notoriety given this insect is not due so much to the damage which it inflicts as to the fact that it appears in enormous numbers.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR PARTY SOCIAL

The Eastern division of the Marion County Democratic club at a meeting last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Burris of Kirkpatrick completed plans for the ice cream festival to be held Saturday night at Caledonia.

Plans also were discussed for the countywide meeting to be held in the middle of July at the Claridon school.

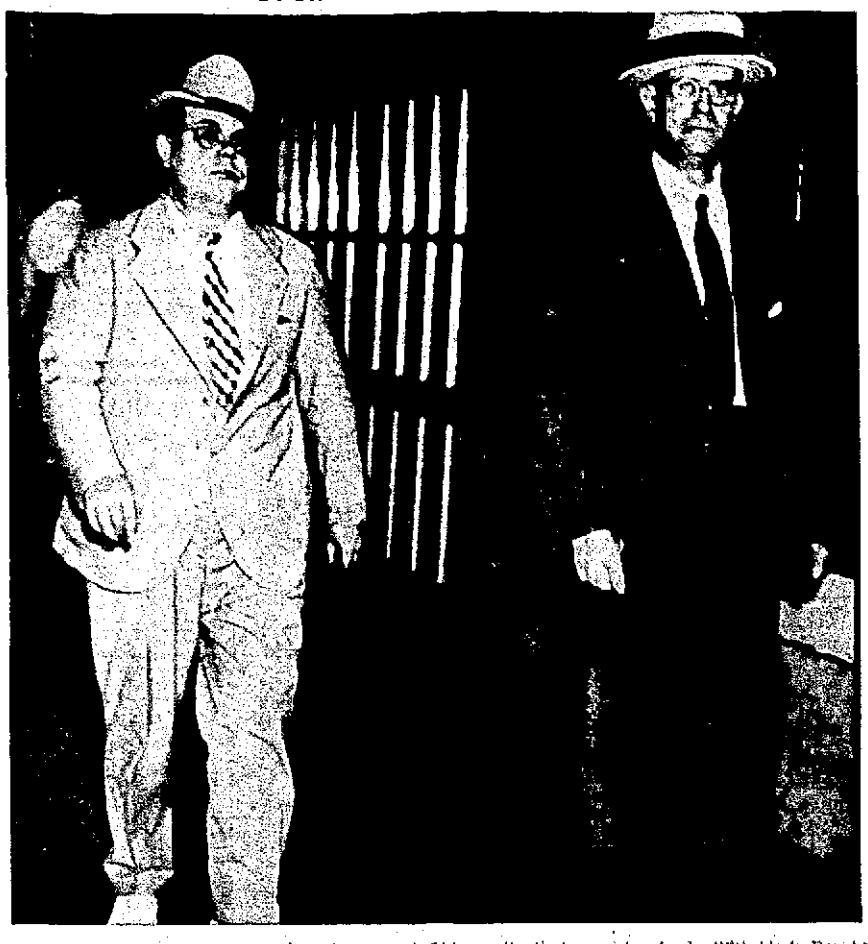

The next meeting of the division will be Monday, June 22, at the Harrison Kraner home east of Claridon.

BROTHERS BEGIN TERM IN OHIO PENITENTIARY

FORMER RESIDENT OF MARION DIES

Mrs. Leonice Lapham Humphreys, 56, daughter of pioneer Marion county residents, died May 31 at her home at Indianola, Merritt Island, on the St. John's river near Cocoa, Fla., according to word received by Mrs. Mary Rexroth of 784 East Center street, a close family friend.

Mrs. Humphreys was born in Marion in 1880, to Jaima and Martha Lee Lapham. The family moved to Florida in 1881 and Mr. Lapham became an orange grower. Surviving are the husband, Fred G. Humphreys, two sons, Lee of Jacksonville, Fla., and Neil of Merritt, and a daughter, Mrs. Avis Donaldson of Merritt. The funeral and burial were conducted June 2 at Indianola.

BROTHERS ENTERS OHIO PENITENTIARY

Former Marion Man Begins One to Ten Year Term for Embezzlement.

Frank L. Brothers, 42, former Marion man, entered Ohio state penitentiary yesterday afternoon to begin serving a term of one to 10 years on a charge of embezzling $13,783 in funds of the state division of conservation, news dispatches from Columbus reported.

He was sentenced by Judge John R. King after the judge had overruled Brothers' motion for a new trial.

Charles B. Norris, Franklin county deputy sheriff, took Brothers to the prison shortly afterward.

Brothers formerly was chief accountant in the state division of conservation. Before joining the division in 1925, he had been employed by the Erie railroad in Marion.

Before sentence was passed Brothers thanked the Franklin county prosecutor and the court for a "fair and impartial trial," and again declared his innocence by stating, "Out of the millions of dollars that were handled through the office while I was there, not one cent was spent for my personal use." He said if he was obliged to serve a prison term, he hoped "there will be a sizeable portion of my life left, which will be spent in rehabilitating myself."

Throughout his recent trial Brothers contended he did not use any of the funds for himself but used it to pay bills of the division.

In his motion for new trial, he contended a mistake was made by a court clerk in sending two guilty verdict forms to the jury room instead of one guilty and one not guilty form. The court overruled this as a ground for granting a new trial.

WIENER ROAST

Members of the Brush and Chisel club, amateur artists' group, will have a sketch party and wiener roast next Wednesday night at a spot 19 miles south of Marion along the Whetstone river. Sketching from nature will be the principal feature of the party.

Pirates, Cubs Worry Cards; Tribe Trims Senators

MUNGO WALKS OUT ON DODGERS; RED SOX WIN FROM TIGERS

Blaeholder Hurls Indians to Victory Over Washington; Cubs Beat Phillies.

By The Associated Press

Any way you look at it, the Buccaneers from Pittsburgh and the Champion Cubs of Chicago seem to be the boys to supply whatever headaches come to Mr Frankie Frisch and his St. Louis Cardinals in the current National league race

They're chasing each other right up the ladder, resting in second and third place, respectively, today, now that what is generally regarded as the New York Giants' long-predicted blow-up has come to pass.

The Pirates drubbed the Dodgers 6-3 yesterday for a clean sweep in their four-game series, and the Cubs took their third in a row from the Phillies, 4 3.

Their victories, along with the surprise walkout of Van Lingle Mungo, the Dodgers' number one speedball pitcher, from the Brooklyns' temporary camp in Pittsburgh, featured the shortened program in which Cleveland's 10-2 triumph over the Senators, and the Boston Red Sox' 4-3 win over Detroit, furnished the only other competition

Although Mungo left the Dodgers without giving a reason, the talk popped up again that he isn't keen about the support of his teammates this year, and that he's still down in the mouth over the failure of recent trade winds which might have blown him across the river to the Giants

And the Giants could use him most handily, for a pitching collapse, particularly on the part of Clydell Castleman, and, of late Harry Gumbert, has been largely responsible for the New Yorkers' skid Although they were rained out at Cincinnati yesterday, they slid from a second place tie all the way down to fourth place in the upward rush of the Pirates and Cubs

Over in the American league while the leading Yanks were idle, the Red Sox pulled up to 2 4 games back of the pace with their win over the Tigers, while Cleveland again became a threat for third place in taking the Senators

Blaeholder's victory over Washington gave that veteran another of the laughs he is piling up his sleeve this season for with five wins and two losses, he has become the number two hurler on the Cleveland staff, after being traded into the discard both by the cellar holding St Louis Browns and the seventh place Athletics

The Cubs waited until the last of the ninth to polish off the Phillies, with Catcher Ken O'Dea in the hero's role by singling in the tying and winning runs with the bases loaded The Pirates had easy sailing through Red Lucas five hit pitching for the first eight innings, and Guy Bush's ninth inning relief job to stem a Dodger rally.

Mungo Tells Why He Quit Dodgers

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 11—Van Lingle Mungo star Brooklyn pitcher who went on strike yesterday and quit the Dodgers cold in Pittsburgh, said today he would not don a Dodger uniform again 'unless they treat me right"

"I haven't been getting the right kind of support from the team or the proper treatment from the club, and the truth of the matter is I want to be traded," said the fire-ball right handed hurler

When Mungo failed to report to the Dodgers' dressing room at Forbes Field Pittsburgh, yesterday, John Gorman, business manager of the club, indicated Mungo would be fined or suspended, or both.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

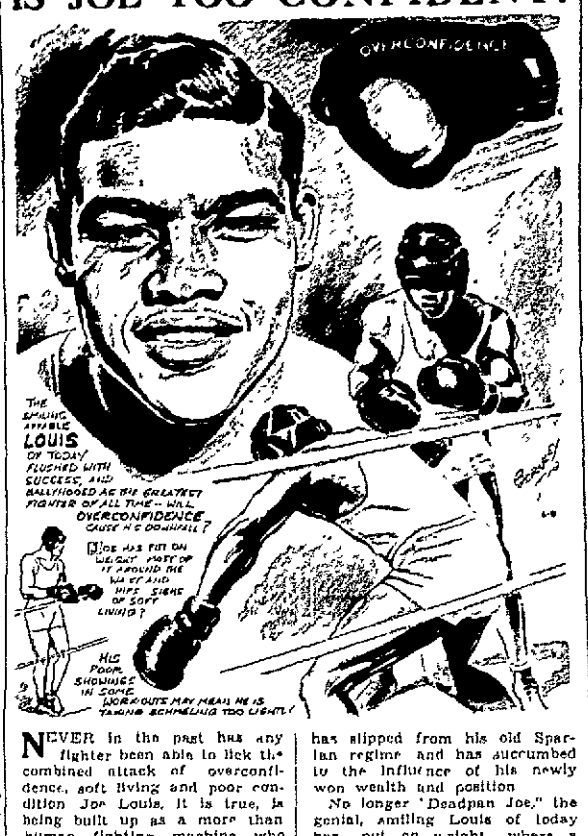

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE — Barney Ross 142½ world welterweight champion, knocked out Laddie Pantelli, 136½ Marseilles (10) (5)

ST LOUIS—Billy Beauhuld 136, St Louis outpointed Ray Sharkey, 135 Cleveland (10)

IS JOE TOO CONFIDENT?

NEVER in the past has any fighter been able to lick the combined attack of overconfidence, soft living and poor condition Joe Louis, it is true, is being built up as a more than human fighting machine who can surely whip his weight in wildcats without even lifting a finger in training.

However, before all his past triumphs, our Joseph has trained long and faithfully He has been a model athlete, always in the so-called pink, a superb specimen of perfectly trained manhood

Now, with the Schmeling fight on June 18 and the Braddock encounter looming, and as he nears his title goal, there are persistent rumors that Louis has slipped from his old Spartan regime and has succumbed to the influence of his newly won wealth and position

No longer 'Deadpan Joe," the genial, smiling Louis of today has put on weight where a fighter shouldn't—around the hips, thighs and waist He has looked positively atrocious in some of his workouts, and no one can say Joe isn't a gym fighter, either

The Brown Bomber is either taking Schmeling much too lightly, or he is playing possum to build up the fight If the former is true Joe may find that not even a fistic superman can flout ring training tradition with impunity

NIGHT LEAGUE
K of P vs. Axe Funeral (rain).

• • •

Old man weather stepped in to deliver the knockout blow to the scheduled All Star night league game matching the Axe Funeral Home and K. of P teams at Lincoln park last night The game was halted momentarily at the close of the second inning by a light shower A downpour after the game had been resumed ended the conflict in the last half of the third frame The crowd, evidently wary of the darkened skies which were in evidence earlier in the evening, numbered aproximately 100 persons

It was the K of P. team's first appearance on the diamond, its conflict last Friday with the Gasco outfit having been postponed The Axe Funerals were previously initiated under the floodlights, having suffered a 3-2 defeat at the hands of the M S S squad last Wednesday The remaining night league contest set for this week will bring together the Gasco and Elks squads at Lincoln park Friday at 8 30 o'clock

In the game last night both teams failed to score in either of the first two stanzas, and the K. of P aggregation tallied two runs in the opening of the third Merchant beat out an infield grounder, Cram walked, and Arbogast poled out a triple to account for the team's two runs With one out in the last half of the inning, the Axe Funerals registered on Bill Everly's homer, before the downpour ended the conflict In the two and one-third innings, Millsor. Axe Funeral hurler, fanned four batters and walked two, while Amick, K. of P mound sman, fanned one and walked one.

In twilight contests, league leaders triumphed in games which had previously ended in tie scores Lee Street garnered its four victory of the season by winning 3 to 2, over Epworth No 1 After trailing 2 to 1, the Lee Streeters tallied two runs in the fifth stanza, which proved to be their winning advantage The victory gave Lee Street a record of four wins in five games, closely trailing the League No. 1 leaders, Forest Lawn, which has won all of four contests

With eight hits and errorless fielding, the M S S team scored a 6 to 5 win over the Lawrence Farm Markets It was the fourth consecutive victory of the M S S squad and gave it a standing identical with that held by Huber entry in the Commercial league The two undefeated teams are to meet tonight at the President field, to temporarily decide Commercial league leadership Other twilight games tonight will match the Excavator and Fairfield at M S S field Marion Merchants and Keystown Camp at Garfield park, Lawrence Markets and Prospect at Lincoln park

COLUMBUS RED BIRDS DEFEAT MILLERS, 6-2; PLAY BREWERS NEXT

Milwaukee Clings to One-Game Edge Over Blues in American Association.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 11—The Milwaukee Brewers moved on to Columbus today still clinging to their precious one-game edge over Kansas City's Blues in the tussle for the American association leadership

The Brewers, combining excellent pitching by Joe Heving with a 10-hit assault, shut out Indianapolis last night, 4 to 0, to remain ahead of the Blues who whipped Louisville, 5 to 1, in a daylight game. Heving gave the Indians only six hits all singles except a triple by Oscar Eckhardt, and kept them well apart.

Kansas City finally managed to conquer Louisville after being pushed around by Burleigh Grimes men Hal Smith kept eight Colonel hits spread out, and contributed three singles to pace the Blues to a 5 to 1 decision

Columbus squared the series with Minneapolis by whipping the Millers 6 to 2, behind Max Cullen Macon's effective pitching Macon allowed eight hits, while the Red Birds thumped Red Grabowski and Ray Kolph for 12

Toledo defeated St. Paul 8 to 3, in a night game, combining 12 hits off Glenn Spencer. Horace Lesenbee and Weinert with four Saint errors Carl Boone limited St. Paul to nine hits.

REDS MAY BID FOR VAN LINGLE MUNGO

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O, June 11—The Cincinnati Reds prepared for their second night game of the season today, with Brooklyn, while baseball circles buzzed with "trade' talk, centering largely on suggested acquisition of Van Lingle Mungo, striking fire-ball artist of the Dodgers.

VAN MUNGO

No sooner had Mungo walked out on his teammates at Pittsburgh yesterday as they prepared to head here, than Manager Charley Dressen announced he was interested in acquiring the big right hander.

Mungo has been dissatisfied with support of his league-trailing teammates and disappointed at failure of recent negotiations to trade him

The Enquirer reported that Manager Bill Terry of the Giants called Casey Stengel by long distance telephone Tuesday night and offered Clydel Castleman and Hank Lieber in exchange for Mungo, but the paper said Casey held out for Lieber and Mel Ott.

Imminence of Monday as the season's dead line on trades gave experts here added encouragement that Mungo's break from Brooklyn might ease negotiations, if any by the Reds.

Gorman, in Cincinnati with the Dodgers for tonight's game with the Reds, said a representative of the club would call on Mungo at New York during the day and discuss circumstances that caused Mungo to pack his bags Pittsburgh and desert the Brooklyn team

"There is nothing to say yet and there may be nothing to say until tomorrow." Gorman said

WRESTLING "TRUST" QUESTION REOPENED

Sandow's Manager Meets Suspension Notice With Threat To Sue.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 11 — The wrestling "trust" business is not dead.

Billy Sandow, manager of heavyweight wrestler Everett Marshall, answered the New York state commission's suspension of the champ with a threat to sue the body for $100,000 and asked that Attorney General Phelan (Gen. John Phelan, commission chairman) is interested in the wrestling game why doesn't he start cleaning it up in New York? The "trust" has a finger in this somewhere."

The commission suspended Marshall Monday for failure to accept a match in New York with Ed "Strangler" Lewis the week of July 13. Sandow said he told Attorney General Phelan Marshall was booked in the west that week.

The suspension notice, Sandow said in an interview, came after announcement that Marshall would meet Babe Baer in a title match on June 29. Both Marshall and Babe are recognized in various states as the world's heavyweight champion.

Max Fearless As He Prepares To Meet Louis

NAPANOCH, N. Y., June 11—Unbelievers, who shout that Joe Louis never has been tested by a fearless man, will see such a man a week from tonight when Max Schmeling, fighting philosopher from Germany's black forest, climbs into the Yankee stadium ring to meet the Brown Bomber's murderous fists.

Max never has been accused of anything but unbounded courage in the ring, so there isn't much chance that he will be suddenly stricken with Louis-itis now that he is to get his last big flight at fighting fame. He admits Louis shapes up as his hardest ring foe and that his chances of victory are far from bright. But he isn't afraid.

"I fight hard and do my best," says Maxie. "No, I have no plan of fighting except to fight hard and keep on my feet."

If you get licked, will you quit fighting?" he was asked.

"That depends on how I get licked. If I get licked," he said with a broad smile.

"We mean if you get beaten badly like Baer was."

"Oh, yah, I suppose then."

At that moment, Max spiked rumors he would settle down in the United States.

"No, I will live in Germany where my friends are," he said. "Money? I have enough to get along on."

The contrast between Schmeling and Baer is wide.

As Baer trained for Louis, he uttered bombastic statements about his ability to beat the Brown Bomber back when he cared to open up. He burned the candle at both ends, talking about Bomber Joe into the wee hours of the morning. Not so with Schmeling. He never mentions Louis' name and never reads American newspaper accounts of his or Louis' training activities. He has one of his attendants keep a scrap book of newspaper clippings but won't let him bring it around to his house, two miles from camp.

He's proceeding along the old time theory of "what you don't know won't hurt you any."

School Teachers Become Students for Vacation

Out of school and into school is the program many Marion teachers have adopted for their summer vacation period.

With school closed less than a week, the men and women who for nine months taught hundreds of boys and girls are planning on spending at least six weeks of their vacation period "letting someone else do the talking," as one of the group said.

Most of the teachers are going for additional college credits, a few will go to work toward higher degrees and some of them are going because they want to "brush up" on the latest developments in the subjects in which they are most interested.

Two of the summer school students who are going the farthest away for their work are Miss Lucille Foreman and Miss Isabelle Stump, both of the Harding High school faculty, who will study for six weeks at the Bread Loaf School of English in Bread Loaf, Vt.

James E. Frew, principal of the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, and Miss Jaynette Vaughan of the Olney avenue school will take work at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Miss Helen Holdridge of the Olney avenue faculty will study at a school in Bloomington, Ill.

Among those who will go to Ohio State university for additional study are Miss Harriet Smith and Stuart Shipman of the North Main Street school, Miss Grace Colvin, former industrial arts teacher at the Vernon Heights school who has been hired as visiting teacher next year, Cecil Gabler of the Central Junior High school faculty, and Donald Lee, Mark H. Baker, Miss Mary Archer, Chester H. Hannahs and O. C. Ice of the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school.

Ohio Northern university at Ada will claim Miss Leora Ankney of Central Junior High school, Miss Marie Johnson of the Forest Lawn school and Miss Margaret Schilentz of the Mark street school. Miss Margaret Topliff of the Mark Street faculty will attend Kent State college at Kent, O.

Harold D. Runkle of the Harding High school faculty will go to school in New York state and Miss Marian Washburn of the Central Junior High school will study at the Allegheny School of Natural History at Quaker Bridge, N. Y.

Miss Bertha Thomas, who was a substitute teacher at the Olney avenue school for four months of the past school year and who has been hired as a regular teacher for the coming year, and Miss Caryl Leeka of the Greenwood Street school, will study at Wittenberg college in Springfield. Mrs. Fleta Hankel of the Pearl street school faculty will continue her work at Bowling Green State university, at Bowling Green, O. Homer Mitchell, assistant music instructor, will study at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Miss Jennette Powers of the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school will study at Ohio university at Athens and Miss Garnet Nagel of the same school will study in New York City.

Raymond McNutt, a member of the Edison faculty, will go to Portland, Ore., to represent the Marion City Teachers' association at the convention of the National Education association June 28 to July 2. Another member of the same faculty, Miss Elizabeth Jackson of Mt. Vernon, O., sailed today on the S. S. Ile de France for a study tour of Europe.

RURAL POWER PLANTS NEARING COMPLETION

Miami and Shelby County Projects on Cooperative Basis Await Meters.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 11—The first rural electrification project in the country neared completion in Ohio today—in Miami and Shelby counties.

Ohio Farm Bureau officials said that as soon as meters were installed, the current, to be paid for on a cooperative basis, would be turned on.

A power sub-station located near the Piqua municipal light plant, from which power will be purchased, is ready for service.

The project was estimated to have cost $309,900 in Shelby county and $221,000 in Miami. Shelby county will have 345 miles of lines and Miami 240.

More than a score of other projects are in the making. Officials said work would start in Champaign county next week to serve 1,900 patrons on 440 miles of line at a cost of $447,000. Bids for a Lorain-Medina county project and another in Holmes county will be received July 1.

DEMOCRAT CARRIES OHIO G. O. P. BRAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 11—Ohio's standards waved in the demonstration for former President Herbert Hoover at the Republican national convention last night—but a man from Indiana held one of them and a Democratic leader from Zanesville held the other.

When the parade started after Hoover's address, enthusiastic listeners swept by the Ohio delegation which remained in its place. A man identified only as "from Indiana" picked up the Ohio standard and joined in the procession.

Somehow Ernest Graham, Zanesville Democrat and safety director, reached Ohio's alternate standard and carried it along with the crowd. Graham is a former probate judge of Muskingum county.

AUTO AND TRUCK DAMAGED IN CRASH

An automobile owned by David Myers of 134 East Church street and parked at 562 North Main street was badly damaged when it was struck about 4:30 a. m. today by a Commercial Motor freight truck driven by B. D. Shafer of Bowling Green, according to a police report. The passenger car had been borrowed by Harold Camp and was parked in front of his North Main street residence. It was bumped over the curb by the impact.

The driver of the truck told police he did not see the parked car because of the lights of an approaching vehicle. The rear axle of the truck was twisted while the body of the passenger car was damaged.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

LANDON STAMPEDE IS IN FULL SWING

tween the supporters of individual candidates.

He predicted that "we will all be together" behind the nominees, and that Herbert Hoover probably would campaign for the ticket.

One of the many rumors about the platform was that Gov. Landon wanted the gold standard advocated in the platform, contrary to what Borah wishes.

Through the early hours it was understood the monetary plank advocated a "sound currency" backed by metal but without stipulating the metal. Borah headquarters considered this a victory for him.

Gold Standard Omitted

One member of the platform committee, who did not want his name used, said the gold standard had been inserted twice but taken out each time.

While the "favorite son" candidates were withdrawing, their states soon were joined by delegates from uninstructed southern states. Florida, in caucus, was the first in line up with the rush.

Every effort to line up the party solidly was being made by the leaders.

Between talks with representatives of the "also ran" candidates, John Hamilton—Landon manager—said he believed the convention should have a recess of 12 to 15 hours between the two nominations.

"I hope that we may nominate a candidate for president today so that we may work on the vice presidential nomination tonight," he said.

He declined to discuss the withdrawals or the Landon choice for second place.

Asked whether he would withdraw, Borah said it depended on the "feeling of my delegates."

He called his delegates to his room.

Ohio Delegates Released

State Chairman Ed D. Schorr said that Ohio's 47 favorite son delegates would be released by Robert A. Taft during the day.

This action, Schorr said, would be taken as a result of other favorite son candidates doing the same.

Hope of getting to the nominations this afternoon had to contend with the platform delay. The full committee was recessed until one p. m. even as the delegates gathered for the session that opened at 11:30 a. m.

Federal Judge I. M. Meekins of North Carolina also was removed from the list of "favorite son" candidates.

Thomas Dixon, author who was to nominate him, said he would not offer Meekins' name because of the imminence of a Landon nomination on the first ballot.

Hamilton hurried to a meeting with Vandenberg at his hotel amidst reports that the Michigan senator still might be "drafted" for second place. He insisted yesterday he would refuse from the rostrum, if nominated.

It developed that Hamilton's call on Vandenberg was, in the Kansan's words, a "courtesy visit." He also called on Borah, saying he was paying respects "to an old and valuable member of the party."

In his withdrawal from the major lists, Gov. Harry W. Nice of Maryland said his name still would be presented for the vice presidency.

Collapse of all the opposition to Landon left the delegates interested principally in the platform. William Allen White, the Kansas editor and a member of the platform committee, jokingly summarized the situation while the platform arguments proceeded:

"We stand at Armageddon and battle for the lord."

The procession of hitherto undecided states to Landon continued. The 13 from Alabama went over, his strength in Virginia and numerous other states grew hourly.

Omer Custer, chairman of the Illinois delegation, said he planned to do everything to see that Knox was the vice presidential choice.

Clarence Buck, Republican nominee for Illinois state treasurer, said he had talked with Knox this morning and had been informed that the publisher was leaving any move in the vice presidential situation to the Landon camp.

Knox disclosed he had been talking with "some of my friends" about the vice-presidential nomination. But he would not say whether he would accept such a nomination, declaring "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it."

To Call for Speeches

Once the platform arguments could be completed, Chairman Bertrand Snell was ready to call for the nominating speeches in the fifth convention session today. From there it was just a step to the voting itself; and the big delegations were making ready.

The biggest break yet to Gov. Landon came when 85 of the 90 New York votes went over. John D. M Hamilton, his manager, coolly added these to the 50 of Pennsylvania's 75 freshly lined up and for the first time predicted a first ballot sweep.

Other delegates from the two states indicated they would join after a single ballot for other candidates.

"That clinches it," was the jubilant comment of John Hamilton, Landon's manager.

Hoover Backer Ignored

Melvin C. Eaton, New York state chairman, won little support for a suggestion that "out of respect" for Hoover the delegation should wait until after his last night's speech.

"I respect Mr. Hoover as much as anyone," commented Ogden Mills, Hoover's secretary of the treasury, "but it is impossible for me to see any connection between his speech and how we may vote."

Further delay, he said, would lay the delegation open to suspicion of trying to make a deal.

He declined to discuss either the vice-presidential nomination or the platform; but did indicate a layover until Friday was possible on all the balloting unless differences over the platform were reconciled by late today.

Langworthy In Charge

Herman Langworthy of Kansas City was the Landon leader entrusted with piloting the platform in the convention session this forenoon—provided the document was ready by that time. One departure his committee made from previous party doctrine, as a concession to Sen. Borah of Idaho, pledged the party flatly against membership in the World court or League of Nations.

The last three Republican Presidents favored joining the World court. The platform on which Herbert Hoover ran for reelection in 1932 advocated adherence.

Even as the subject came up, the convention hall walls still rang with Mr. Hoover's excoriation of the new deal and his call for a "holy crusade for liberty." His speech to the convention last night won him the wildest demonstration that has marked the conclave so far.

Then began the final attempt to whip the platform into a shape acceptable to Landon.

To Keep It Short

The aim was to confine the document to 5,000 words, instead of having some 8,000 as in 1932. The subjects included anti-monopoly, banking, labor, social security, national defense, the tariff, constitutional properties and the right of free enterprise.

JUNE TAX PAYMENTS TO START ON MONDAY

Collection Follows Closely After December Period; Closing Date Not Set.

Collection of taxes for the last half of the tax year 1935 will be started next Monday in the office of County Treasurer Homer D. Cole, he announced today.

The June collection period is opening on schedule, although the closing date has not yet been determined, Mr. Cole said. The opening is following close on the heels of the December collection period due to the late start of the latter. The unsettled condition of the state tax program last winter was the reason for the delay. The opening should have been Dec. 20 but postponements brought it to March 2.

The December collection period brought $518,317.89 into county coffers. The distribution of that amount to the various subdivisions was made last Friday.

PARDON IS REFUSED AFTER MAKING GOOD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 11—Gov. Martin L. Davey refused today a wife's plea that convict John Denner be pardoned from a life term in Ohio penitentiary because he made good following his escape six years ago.

"I have carefully considered the case of John Denner and find I cannot extend his executive clemency," Gov. Davey said.

"Naturally human sympathy would find in favor of a man who, after having escaped, had made good, but his case must be considered in the light of the many others now in our penal institutions serving sentences for first degree murder."

ROOSEVELT TEXAS BOUND AFTER ARKANSAS SPEECH

Executive Pledges Solution of Economic Problems Under "Broad Purposes" of Constitution.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO DALLAS, Texas, June 11—President Roosevelt rode into Texas today, pledged to continuation of his efforts to solve economic and social problems under the "broad purposes" of the Constitution.

The chief executive gave this message to the nation last night in Arkansas just before resuming a 4,000-mile western tour that called for brief addresses today in Houston, San Antonio and Austin.

Tomorrow morning at Dallas, the hub of Texas' celebration of its centennial of independence from Mexico, the chief executive will deliver the second set speech of his trip.

The third will be made at Vincennes, Ind., Sunday morning in dedicating a memorial to George Rogers Clark, Revolutionary war hero of the northwest.

Addressing an open air Arkansas centennial throng at Little Rock late yesterday, the President declared the Constitution of the government extends beyond state lines and added:

"Under its broad purposes we can and intend to march forward, believing as the overwhelming majority of Americans believe, that it is intended to meet and fit the amazing physical, economic and social requirements that confront us in this generation."

Solving Problems

Declaring the "common man" must be protected from the "privileged few," he asserted the nation was "commencing to solve" the questions relating to prices, wages, hours of labor, conditions of employment, fair competition and social security, and added:

"The new approach of these problems may not be immediately discernible; but organization to meet human suffering can never be predicated on the relaxation of human effort."

The crowd which overflowed the 30,000-seat centennial stadium on the outskirts of Little Rock cheered his statement that if local or state governments were unable to improve the economic position of their inhabitants "it would take a foolish and short-sighted man to say that it is no concern of the national government itself."

They cheered again when he said Jefferson had the "courage and buckbone" to go through with the Louisiana purchase which carved out the territory of Arkansas and other future states, without the "full and unanimous approval of every member of the legal profession."

He added Jefferson ignored warnings that no specific authority existed in the Constitution for the purchase and based his action on a broad interpretation of that instrument or its "inherent qualities of sovereignty."

One official close to the President said it would not surprise him if the general tenor of the Little Rock speech were followed in the coming Democratic national campaign.

The President turned to the question of the centralization of power. "Self-government we must and shall maintain," he said.

"The federal union itself was organized under a Constitution because in the days following the revolution, it was discovered that a mere federation of states was such a loose organization, with constant conflicts between the thirteen states themselves, that a Constitution and a national organization to take care of government beyond state lines was a necessity.

"The Constitution provided the best instrument ever devised for the continuation of these fundamental principles."

RAIN IN NEXT FEW DAYS TO DETERMINE OHIO CROP

Conditions Now from "Fair to Poor" as Dry Weather Threatens Fields and Orchards.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 11—Agricultural experts at Ohio State university put their heads together today and agreed that the success of the state's farm and garden crops this year depend largely upon the amount of rainfall in the next few days.

The condition of most crops, the experts said, was from "fair to poor," with dry weather threatening to reduce both the quality and quanity of yields in fields and orchards. Heavy rain in various parts of the state late yesterday, they indicated, relieved the situation temporarily.

J. B. Park, professor of agronomy, said the situation of Ohio's 1936 wheat crop was "not yet desperate."

"It takes a severe spring drouth to affect the wheat," he said. A survey showed, Park added, that the quality of the wheat was uniformly good, but the straw was unusually short.

Corn, he said, has been delayed, both by late planting and the dry soil, while oats, most seriously damaged of field crops, were in "bad shape." Many fields of oats were so badly damaged by early cold weather, heavy rains, and late planting that they will not be worth harvesting, he said.

F. H. Beach, university specialist on horticulture, said Ohio's berry and fruit crops suffered from weather damage as much or more than field plantings.

"Raspberries will be fair if they get rain soon," he said. "The southern Ohio strawberry crop will be only 25 per cent of last year's yield."

Beach said peach trees, which were frozen and otherwise damaged by last winter's sub-zero weather, were yielding only in two places along Lake Erie, while the apple crop was expected to be less than 40 per cent of last year's bumper crop.

The warm dry weather has not yet brought serious damage to pasture lands, B. L. Blackman of the university's animal husbandry division said.

"Pastures are in fair shape, but hay crops, including clover and alfalfa, are short because of the lack of rain," he said. "Fortunately there was a 15 per cent carryover of last year's hay crops, so most farmers will have enough feed for their stock."

Blackman said he found on a recent survey land in Geauga and Portage counties too dry to be plowed.

The canning and vegetable crops also depend on the amount of rain they receive during the rest of June, E. B. Tussing, a specialist on vegetable gardening, said.

"The early potato crop is late, and will be damaged badly unless there is rain soon," he said. "Many central Ohio farmers grow peas for canning, and they are being harvested now, with the crop far short because of dry weather."

Prospects Not Good in County

Although Marion county will have no locally grown peaches or cherries this year and field crops will not measure up to those of good years, the outlook in the county apparently is a little brighter than crop prospects for the state as a whole, a checkup this morning indicated.

Fruit raisers and Farm Bureau representatives consulted in the checkup said:

Many fields planted with seed corn that was not tested have been replanted, but with good weather the crop should be reasonably good.

Wheat quality appears to be good although straw is short and the stand on the ground is not thick.

Oats look "pretty good" although acreage is low because weather was unsuitable for planting.

Strawberry, raspberry and apple crops may be as much as 50 per cent below good years.

Last night's .55 of an inch of rainfall tends to help the crops but more rain and warm weather are essential if crops are to thrive.

LEGION TERRORISM PROBED IN FACTORIES

Motor Firm Men Held as Members of Detroit Night Riding Society.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 11—The trail of Black legion terrorism led into three large Detroit automotive plants today.

Frank Rice, an investigator for the Packard Motor Car Co., and foremen in two other automotive factories were among five men held as members of a Black legion "intelligence squad" accused of burning the home of a suspected communist.

Matthew Smith, general secretary of the Mechanics Educational society, a union of tool and die makers, said that Rice was discovered in a closed meeting of the society two years ago.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor said that the night riders worked closely with "labor spies."

Roy Hepner, another confessed member of the Black legion's "intelligence squad," was on call today as a witness before Circuit Judge James E. Chenot's one-man grand jury.

STOCK TRADING RATHER SLOW

Farm Implement Shares, Motors and Few Specialties Advance Slightly.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 11—Stock market favors were given grudgingly to a few selected issues today while most of the so-called leaders remained in the wallflower class.

Farm implement shares stepped into the limelight, with J. I. Case up 3 points near the fourth hour, and Deere and International Harvester pushing forward a point or more each.

General Motors, Auburn, Liggett & Myers "B", National Biscuit, Union Carbide and American Telephone advanced a point or so. Radio was active at a slight improvement. The majority of the rails, steels and utilities were narrow. The alcohols, including U. S. Industrial, Schenley and National Distillers pointed lower.

Foreign currencies were slightly mixed in terms of the dollar. Bonds displayed no definite trend and commodities were a trifle spotty.

Although the boiling political pot held much of Wall Street's attention, analysts found time to study industrial developments.

The steel situation was being watched closely, with opinions differing as to whether price increases announced for July 1, could be long maintained.

Encouraging to recovery students was the continued high level of electricity production.

The French franc at the start of foreign exchange transactions, was unchanged to 6.58⅜ cents, and sterling was up 3-16 of a cent at $5.02⅞.

LIGHT CROP REPORT PREDICTION BULLISH

Traders Doubt Yield Will Be Sufficient for Exports To Affect World Prices.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 11 — Influenced by bullish aspects of the United States government crop report, wheat prices averaged higher today. Talk was current the new domestic crop does not hold promise of an exportable surplus sufficient to send prices to a world level for some time at least until the spring crop is assured.

Opening ¼ off to ¾ up, July 84⅛, 8⅛; September 85¼@¾, wheat then held near to this range. Corn started ¼ lower to ¼ higher, July 61¾@⅞, and for the time being altered little.
